EXHIBITION PREPARATIONS

Horses Arriving, Floor Space Being Rapidly Taken Up And Entries Pouring In.

The great event for which for months past such extensive preparations have been under way, is now at hand. A week from today, on Monday, July 2nd, the greatest industrial exhibition in the history of the Northwest, the first provincial exhibition of Alberta, will be opened by His Honor Lieut-Governor Bulyea, on the exhibition grounds in Edmonton, at the hour of ten o'clock in the morning. The exhibition is to continue for four days, the dates being July 2nd, 3rd, 4th and 5th. The exhibition will be open morning, afternoon and evening of each day. The majority of the city merchants have agreed to close their places of business at 12 o'clock noon of each day of the exhibition, and remain closed, thus giving their employees a half holiday. The people of Edmonton are to have the greatest four days of their lives. Four days of beautiful weather, four days of sports, four days of horse racing, four days of grand stand performances, four days of good solid enjoyment all round is the sum total of the efforts of the directors of the provincial exhibition association. During these four days all compasses will be pointing toward the fair capital of Alberta, and all the country will know that the great exhibition is on. Double, triple and quadruple train service will carry the crowds into the city from every point.

Cheap excursion rates will act as a further inducement to attract the people to the capital city.

EXHIBITS BETTER THAN EVER
The exhibits in all classes will be greater and better than ever, especially in the live stock and poultry sheds. The cattle sheds have been greatly enlarged and also the horse stables and the hog pens. Improvements have been made in the quarters intended for the accommodation of the exhibits in poultry.

POLICE ARM HOOLIGANS

Russian Government Attempts To Distract Attention From Its Own Failure By Inciting Wholesale Massacre Of The Jews

Odessa, June 24.—The police are clandestinely arming the worst elements in the city and advocating a wholesale massacre of Jews, which it is now reported is fixed for mid-night Wednesday. The authorities have been appealed to by many of the leading Jews but have refused to take action and are taking no steps to curb the hooligans. It is understood that the Modlinski and Lublinski regiments have refused to do police duty in the event of street rioting. Transjort Nijni Novgorod, bound from this city to Sebastopol, which sailed Saturday morning, returned here late last night. The crew mutinied and refused to go any farther.

JOHN MORRISON KILLED.

Montreal, June 23.—John Morrison, a wealthy but eccentric old Scotchman, was run down and killed yesterday by a street car. For years past it has been Morrison's practice to attend bank meetings and ridicule the managements. Although over 70 he three years ago married a girl under 20 years of age.

TEN YEARS OF LIBERAL GOVERNMENT

Some Features Of The Laurier Administration. A Record Of Canada's Best Railways Promoted Without Land Grants

WISE EXPENDITURE.

The Liberal government has administered our affairs economically, notwithstanding the oft repeated charge of extravagance on the part of the Opposition. There have been increases but they are justifiable. The expenses of every business house and manufacturing concern has increased during the past ten years. But with good business men, increasing expenditures means increasing income. The difference between the Liberal government and the Conservative government is the Liberals have had the money to spend. They have had nearly 60 millions in surpluses. They acted on the principle that wise expenditure is true economy. The post office exactly proves this statement. In 1895 the Conservative government spent $3,593,000 on the post office and went $781 in the hole. In 1903 the Liberal government spent $51,531 more and made a profit of $504,000. That is the method of expenditure every successful man practices.

The customs department increase has been 34 per cent. over the cost under the Conservative government, but at the same time customs revenue has increased 108 per cent. Who would not lay out $34 for $108 in return.

One of the greatest items in increase of the expenditure under Liberal rule has been the Intercolonial railway. In 1895 the working expenses were 3 millions nearly, while today the government is spending 6 million on the I. C. R. The increased earnings, however, compensates for this, the revenue in 1904 being nearly 4 millions greater than in 1895. Formerly the I. C. R., ending practically nowhere, the government brought it to Montreal, improved the roadbed and rolling stock, and made it a creditable asset of the nation and a competitor with the C. P. R. and G. T. R. for the maritime passenger traffic. More money is expended in the agricultural department, the subsidies to the provinces have been increased, while under the heads of legislation, civil government and administration of justice the growing needs of the country have been liberally met and satisfied. The best comparison to take service for service and the credit for economy and efficiency rests with the Liberal administration. Take the sums spent on immigration. In 18 years the Conservative government spent over 4 millions, but got no settlers, while during the last ten years the addition to the wealth of the country in capital, and settlers' effects is ten times the amount spent on immigration.

FACTS FOR FARMERS.

While the last ten years have been unprecedented in the growth of Canada's commercial life, the agricultural industries have more than kept pace and have expanded by leaps and bounds. Much of this is undoubtedly due to the high qualities of intelligence and thrift that characterize the Canadian farmers as a class. On the other hand it cannot be denied that the Liberal government has done much for the farmer. In the first place, Sir Wilfrid Laurier showed his idea of the importance of this industry by appointing as head of the department of agriculture a practical farmer, who was familiar with the problems of the farmer. One of these was the quarantine restrictions upon all cattle entering the United States, which practically prohibited export to that country. Hon. Sydney Fisher was in office only a few months when this barrier was swept away. The result was astonishing. In 1896 the average price of cattle entering the United States was 5.39, while in 1903 it was $28 a head. The numbers increased from 1,645, in 1896, to 87,000 in 1900, but decreased to 10,000 in 1903. This decrease was due to the demand of Canadian feeders for stockers which today are finished on our own ranges and shipped to England. Our export trade to Great Britain has increased from 6 millions in 1896, to 11 millions in 1903, which is in a measure due to the organization of the live stock industry by the live stock commissioner appointed by Mr. Fisher.

Closely allied to this care of live stock interests is the work of the veterinary branch to protect our live stock from the introduction of disease. A thoroughly equipped bacteriological laboratory has been established for this purpose. When we consider that nearly 500 millions are invested in the live stock industry in Canada we can appreciate the government's care and foresight in this regard.

Nothing has had a more important bearing on the development of the farmer's market than the system of cold storage brought to such a high state of perfection. This system of transportation provided refrigerators chambers at creameries; refrigerator cars to carry perishable products; the establishment of cold storage warehouses at the ports of export; and ocean going vessels of efficient mechanical cold storage chambers. By reason of these improvements Canadian butter, eggs, cheese and other perishable commodities could be laid down in the British market in good condition; the result was an immediate advance in the English market, where before Danish, Australian and New Zealand held a considerably higher position. Canadian butter at once took a place scarcely inferior to Danish, the finest in the world. It was the purpose of the Liberal government to give the Canadian farmer the same advantages as his competitors in other lands. When placed on equal footing the Canadian farmer proved his superiority, for while the exports of cheese from the United States declined 20 millions, while our exports of cheese increased 46 millions of dollars; while exports of butter increased only 6 millions from the United States, we increased our 22 millions.

The tariff laws have been altered to suit the farmer as far as possible, while giving a fair measure of protection to the manufacturer. Many articles have been put upon the free list, such as barbed wire, binder twine, cream separators, corn. Others have been materially reduced, as buggies, sleighs, coal, agricultural implements, including rollers, forks, hoes, knives, spades, team engines and boilers, hardware, grain crushers, windmills, threshers and separators, wire nails, spikes, pumps, axes, files, saws, table cutlery, lubricating oils, axle grease, coal oil, etc. All these reductions are subject to a 33 1/3 per cent. reduction if imported from Great Britain.

Previous to the present session the minister of finance in company with other ministers, made an extended tour, consulting the business community and during the coming recess to revise the tariff that shall meet the requirements of all interests, giving again a period of tariff stability under which the industries of Canada shall prosper according to the measure of the past nine years.

NEW RAILWAY ACT AND COMMISSION.

The progressive action of the Liberal government in establishing a railway commission and passing the new railway act is admitted by the business community as one of the best legislative enactments that has been passed by the parliament of Canada in the general interests of the people.

It gives the people greater control, remedies substantial grievances of the farmers in respect to fences, gates, cattle guards and more uniform treatment to shippers. It undoubtedly fills a long felt want, and is the most advanced step hitherto taken by any Canadian government to secure popular control of transportation on just and reasonable lines. It has materially lessened the evils of discrimination in freight rates. After careful consideration the government concluded that certain railway companies in Canada were cutting rates in favor of the Standard Oil company to the detriment of the Canadian oil men, and at once put an end to this discrimination by fixing a uniform schedule of rates to apply to all. In this way the rights of shippers were vindicated and commerce assisted. The commission removes all questions from the atmosphere of partisan politics to a non-partisan board who hold their position for a long term of years who, in this respect deserve the same respect that is paid to the judiciary.

OUR FIRST TRANS-CANADIAN RAILWAY.

No project has engaged the attention of the Canadian people and their government with such a degree of fascination as the proposed trans-Canadian G. T. P. The railway in these days is the great civilizer and must precede the settler in the unoccupied regions. The Canadian confederation would have been a union on paper only, but for the fact that the Grand Trunk rail-

MAY REPEAL PENSION ACT

Bill Now Before The Ottawa House Dealing With Pensions For Cabinet Ministers May Have This Effect

Ottawa, Ont., June 24.—A bill dealing with pensions to cabinet ministers was introduced early this week. Some time ago the subject was discussed in parliament and it also came before the government caucus. The Government was in this way put in possession of views of the houses and its own followers in particular. The pension scheme was undoubtedly one of the most objectionable features of the indemnity and salary bills of last session. As a result of the scheme an amendment was accepted by the government. Just what that was to be was not said. There was a general idea that the British system might be adopted, that is to say that pensions would be given upon application to any party entitled to the same. In this way only those in need of a pension would get one. It is now said that the government may go a step further and repeal the pension act altogether. As some of the beneficiaries, ones on the Conservative side, have been criticizing the government for making the expenditure, they can have no complaint if this happens.

LIFE SAVING BY TELEPHONE.

Sanwich, Ont., June 24.—The telephone saved two lives here yesterday. Mrs. Lloyd, at her summer residence a few miles down the river, saw a small overboarded boat with two boys clinging to it floating down the river, which is 1 1/2 miles wide at this point. She telephoned down the river and a big steamer put out and saved the boys' lives, though they were almost dead from exhaustion.

REVOLUTION IMMINENT

Elections In Panama Precipitate Rioting and Canal Belt Is Under Arms. Americans Interfering

Panama, June 24.—The administration of President Amador has been perpetuated as a result of the elections today, but conditions are now such on the isthmus that were it not for the presence of a large body of American marines and galling guns mounted along the canal strip, revolution would already be in progress. As matters stand, there is a feeling of sullen discontent among the progressive inhabitants of the Panama republic which may break out in open revolution at any moment. Threats of assassination are freely made by Liberals. Long before the polls were opened heavy guards of police surrounded the various polling places and all who tried to vote were scrutinized and if they were thought to be unfriendly to the administration they were refused the right. This was especially true of districts where Liberals were strong, but where followers of the Amador administration outnumbered their opponents there was no trouble. Conflict took place between mounted police and Liberals. The latter insisted on there was no trouble. Conflicts took place followed. The police were getting the worst of it when they drew their revolvers and shot two men fatally. A number were arrested. As soon as the leaders of the Liberals learned that the police had used weapons they issued orders to abandon the election. All the leaders and workers withdrew. A large number of Guatemaltecos are en route here for the purpose of aiding in an attempt to overthrow the Amador administration. Early Sunday day a group of constitutional Democrats and secret police wrecked the residence of a Liberal leader, M. Porras, and would have murdered him had he not succeeded in taking refuge on a steamer. Alberto Paredis, secretary of the Conservative and Liberal coalition, was fatally wounded and a friend killed while a dozen police were wounded. More than one hundred shots were fired. The trouble originated in an attempt of the Liberals to drive the police to their barracks. Governor General Magoon has ordered the cable office to remain open in order that he can keep in communication with Washington. The vice-president asked Magoon to detail all his marines to points where trouble is impending and prevent rioting, but this has not been done.

SAD ACCIDENT AT ST. CATHARINES.
St. Catharines, June 23.—Mrs. McKenzie, 55 years old, who came here to attend the marriage of her niece, Miss Northrup, took a dose of tartar emetic, mistaking it for peppermint salts. Tartar emetic resembles salts and is used for destroying ants. The result was fatal.

ELEVATOR FIRE IN CHICAGO.
Chicago, June 23.—Fire destroyed the Maphatt grain elevators on Thirty-second street and Archer avenue today, causing a loss of $400,000. There were terrific explosions when the fire reached the barley dust. Dwellings for miles around suffered from the shock. Several dwellings near by were burned and acres were damaged. The elevators contained 100,000 bushels of wheat, corn and oats.

The board consists of eighteen members, six of whom are to be appointed for two years, six for four years, and six for six years. The government may remove any of the appointees. FOR THE FARMERS.
The Department of Agriculture has decided upon a plan of action to be carried out at the exhibition which will prove of great benefit to the many of farmers who will be present. The department has applied for space in the building for their purpose, and in the event of their not being able to procure that space, they will provide tents. One of the first things they intend doing is to have an exhibition of all noxious weeds prevalent in the Edmonton district. Mounted specimens will be on exhibition at the tent, and A. Mitchell, chief weed inspector of the department, will be in charge of this tent. All the farmers are invited to pay a visit to the tent, and learn as much about weeds as possible.

Then the department will also have a tent in connection with the dairy branch. A travelling dairy man will be in charge there; the operations of a cream separator will be explained, and also the churning of butter. There will also be a poultry tent, in which there will be exhibited traps, fanning cranks, and charts, etc. A capable instructor will give lectures every day, on poultry raising. Here is one feature of the exhibition alone which will merit attention and should be a sufficient inducement to the farmers to attend.

THE HORSE RACES.
Prominent horsemen say that at the Edmonton Exhibition there will be the greatest race meet that ever western people saw or heard of. Some of the fastest horses in the country are here already doing stunts on the track, and there is a whole bunch still to come. Owners of horses are beginning to sit up and take note of the Edmonton track and this year some of them are jumping old time tricks to take in the Edmonton meet.

Red McKenzie, of the C.N.R., Winnipeg, one of the best known owners in the entire west, brought in his famous bunch of horse flesh this morning over the line of railway he is connected with, having jumped the Portage meet in order to be on hand in Edmonton at what he thinks will be a race meet that will establish Edmonton as a horse town for all time to come. And his horses are going to help him. He has six head. Amongst them the best is "Chester," the star free for all pacer, who has won every free for all that he has started in in Manitoba this spring. Only a few days ago on the Winnipeg track he stepped the course in 2:07, and did the next heat in 2:03-2. He is in excellent condition and will be put on the track tomorrow. The other are Demas, from Los Angeles, Ketchum, a two-year-old from Portage La Prairie, Bardett, another two-year-old from the same place, Lady Huron, from the Portage. There then is the great state horse, Handy Andy, from Portage.

There are a whole lot of horses expected to-day from the Galinboro races. Amongst these are expected Adams great "Joe Interest," from Chicago, and "Whistling Rufus," from Dan R., from Moose Jaw, in charge of trainer Cotton, and Andy Robertson, with his Rosalie, and Strike-a-Light, from Neepawa. Bob Semmens from the "Peg," will also bring along his Etta V. Beas all this spring there are about 20 head of other good runners from Calgary and British Columbia, amongst whom is Zaza, of Gorman Davis, Calgary, and Pepper, all the way from Spokane, owned by Emert Stewart, from Vermilion, will probably have two of his fast ones here. The track is in daily use now by the horsemen, and is in splendid shape. The runners are out in the morning, the trotters taking the afternoon.

THE MANUFACTURES.
Space for exhibits in the main building is now at a premium. All ground floor has been bought up, and the outside annexes, of which there will be a large number, will be given the main building. Amongst those who will exhibit are the Dominion Brokerage Co., who will show off their Golden West soap, the breweries, Revillon Bros., Kelly & Beale, Mr. Groos, of the Alexander nurseries, the Mason & Rish Piano Co., and also several implement firms from Calgary. Other outsiders are expected this week.

RESTAURANTS.
R. B. Cronn has secured the privilege of serving the visitors to the fair with refreshments in the big dining hall in the main building. In addition to this there will be established booths by the Women's Hospital Aid, and by the General Hospital, where all manner of refreshments will be obtained.

LAST WEEK FOR ENTRIES.
The directors of the Provincial Exhibition wish to call the attention of all intending exhibitors to the fact that this week is the last in which entries will be received for the exhibition. In order to avoid a rush at the last day exhibitors are requested to make entry as soon as possible. Entries close June 30th.

Today, the 25th of June, is the day upon which the census of Alberta will be taken. All information asked for by the enumerators who will visit every home in the province, is supposed to be given as it exists at 12 o'clock tonight. No matter when the enumerator makes his visit this is the information he wants. The public can greatly facilitate the work of the enumerators in giving all information without hesitation. BESSIE DERGOLD SHOTS A WILD CAT

A Clover Bar young lady, Miss Bessie Dergold, while going for the cows the other evening, encountered a curious looking animal in a tree near the farm which much alarmed her. She ran back to the house and procured a rifle, and in company with her sisters, again approached the tree. After some skirmishing they managed to bring the animal to the ground with a shot from the rifle. The animal was found to be a large wild cat, the first seen near Clover Bar for some time. The girls took the cat home, and his skin now adorns their doorstep. Miss Bessie is modest about her achievement, but she is probably the first Alberta young lady in many years to bag a wildcat.

BARONOWSKI FINED

Jacob Baronowski was fined fifty and costs on Saturday for illegally having liquor on his premises. It will be remembered this is the outcome of a drunken brawl that occurred at Baronowski's a few weeks ago during a dance, when Mikaluk and Moziluk attempted to settle their differences of opinion in a manner that is not recognized by well-behaved citizens.

LILLIPUTIAN OPERA COMPANY

"A Runaway Girl," will be put on in the Thistle Rink tonight by the Lilliputians. The story of this London and New York musical comedy is woven around the adventures of a pretty miss, who, while attending boarding school, learns that her guardian has decided to marry her off to an unknown suitor. This does not meet with her approval, and she confides her troubles to the professor of the female academy and he agrees to help her day her guardian. Running away, both join a band of wandering minstrels, and in their company they tour the continent. Thus it happens they meet the guardian and the hitherto despised suitor. The fates will have it that the young couple dutifully fell in love with each other; little dreaming that is the result so wished for by the guardian. The fun of the trip largely hinges on the escapades of Flipper, a jockey, whose avowed heart, Alice, in her lonely yearning thinks herself of Flipper and engages Flipper to act as guide for the party and does secure his engagement in that capacity. He arrives where to his dismay he finds himself impressed to the duty as a continental steersman. What he does not know of the continent and foreign languages, all the editions of Beadbach would not suffice to answer, and so there is plenty of fun for the audience and the party. The musical numbers are a prominent part of the presentation and are bright and tuneful. Toddie McNamara will have the role of Flipper, and the rest of the children will also be well cast.

THE ALBERTA ASSOCIATION OF ARCHITECTS.

Ten Years of Liberal Govern-

way and Canadian Pacific railway and the Intercolonial railway brought all parts of the country together to act in unison and beat with the same heart. The new trans-continental line will be another link in that chain of union. It will open up territory hitherto idle and unprofitable, force Canadian trade into Canadian channels, promote citizenship between old and new Canada, and secure absolutely our commercial independence, making us free from the bonding privilege. The undertaking is one worthy the stout hearts of the Canadian people and the growing energy of this young giant nation who are ready to face grave duties and responsibilities. Evidence in all shapes and forms could be given as to the necessity and popularity of the undertaking, but it is sufficient to state that no important proposition brought before the parliament of Canada ever received such unanimous endorsement and approval, and all who have opposed it have gone down to defeat wherever they have presented themselves for election. The new railway is necessary to eliminate the elements of danger that has attended astonishing success of the government's immigration policy. If we consider the map of the continent we will see that from Edmonton to Winnipeg and thence to the seaboard at New York is a continuously fertile belt, hundreds of miles in width. Naturally the northern half is ours, and it is equally natural that those inhabiting the northern belt will trade with those in the southern half of this belt. On the west of this is the comparatively arid region of the American continent and on the east the uninhabited region which lies between Winnipeg and Quebec. Now it is the policy of the Liberal government to bridge this gap that separates old from new Canada by planting settlements in the fertile lands that are known to exist in the aforesaid uninhabited region, and thus give continuity and unity to Dominion colonization. Such a scheme with a national railway will divert trade from north to south via New York, and send it by our own transportation routes.

We give a few practical reasons which commend themselves to the people of the west, and all Canada:

- 1.—It doubles the productive area of Canada.
- 2.—It offers the shortest and only Canadian route from tide water to tide water, summer and winter.
- 3.—It is so situated as to be most secure from foreign invasion.
- 4.—It gives development and competition in transportation to 1,200 miles of growing country in the west.
- 5.—It develops vast coal fields on the Saskatchewan, Athabasca and Peace rivers for the supply of fuel on the prairies.

6.—It gives the most northwesterly prairie region the shortest outlet to the Pacific.

7.—It provides facilities for profitable interchange of mutual necessities between the prairies and the mountain regions of the far west.

8.—Transfers the through traffic interests of the Grand Trunk from the Western States to Western Canada.

9.—It provides against overcapitalization, for effective control of rates, and secures running rights to other roads throughout its entire system.

10.—It ensures a third outlet from the wheat fields to the lakes.

11.—It will be built without giving an acre of land to any corporation and without any cash subsidies.

12.—It brings the I. C. R. to the wheat fields of the west.

Among the many glories of the Liberal administration in the last ten years none stand out in higher relief than the creation of sane imperialism. This achievement has been the personal triumph of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. His distinguished bearing, amiable manners, his tactfulness and eloquent speeches made him the foremost colonial statesman at the Diamond Jubilee. There he was known as the premier of the colony that first dared in the face of hostile treaties to give commercial favors to the Motherland, and prove our "faith in the heritage by more than word of mouth." For the first time an immense enthusiasm was aroused in Britain which has continued with all its generous force until the present, and has stimulated a new interest among British statesmen as to the importance of their colonial empire. A new era has succeeded in the Colonial Office, and Englishmen are beginning to regard not only Canada, but all the colonies with affectionate enthusiasm. The real success of the imperial preferences has not been that he has increased Canada's trade with the Mother Country, but that it has almost sanctified the close affection binding the two in a community of sacrifice, sorrow, and achievement, those shadowy but most potent bonds of empire.

Ten years of Liberal government has seen an intensifying of the Empire idea without surrendering any of our national rights, which has tended to the unity of the whole with the autonomy of the parts. Of such a record as we have briefly outlined the nation may feel justly proud, and it is a fact that every Canadian is prouder of his citizenship today than ever before in our history. A buoyant hope and enthusiasm fills his breast that is the happiest augury of continued success. The Liberal statesmen have always been ready to move with the development of the country, to take "occasion by the hand and make the bounds of freedom yet more wide."

Every supporter of the Liberal party has reason to be proud of its record. Many Liberals remember when their party was in opposition it was the favorite cry of the Conservatives that there was no man in the Liberal ranks that had any capacity for government and administration. The inexorable logic of ten of the most prosperous years in our national life has proved the nonsense of this audacious fallacy. The leaders of the Liberal party have shown they are equally capable to govern. A Liberal administration made the post office pay, caused the revenue to rise by leaps and bounds, built railways without giving cash or land grants, and in every department introduced business methods that have created deficits into surpluses, and failure into success.

It is not claimed that the administration has been absolutely infallible. There have been matters of public policy and executive administration that have not received general consent, but we claim the administration has been pre-eminently one of honesty, efficiency and success, and has redounded to lasting glory of Canada. We feel assured the people are ready to give substantial and enthusiastic support to a continuation of Liberal rule.

As to Brother-in-law

(Toronto Globe)

In his speech on his motion for an inquiry into the management of the Department of the Interior, Mr. Borden read out a list of timber areas granted since 1888 to Mr. T. A. Burrows, M.P., a brother-in-law of Hon. Clifford Sifton. The areas amount in all to 478 square miles. The inference suggested, of course, is that Mr. Burrows' family connection with the former Minister of the Interior gave him advantages that were not open to other lumbermen. It scarcely needs to be said that Mr. Borden, or any other member of parliament, is justified in maintaining a jealous scrutiny of such matters. The Opposition is especially charged with that species of vigilance, and Mr. Borden took the mainly and straightforward course of bringing the matter to the attention of Parliament.

An opportunity was thus given Mr. Sifton of supplying a number of material facts that necessarily do not appear in a mere list of properties held by Mr. Burrows. Mr. Burrows has been in the lumber business in the west for thirty years, long before Mr. Sifton was member of any legislature. He claimed timber areas from the Conservative Government, the only difference being that he got his timber limits from the Conservative Ministers of the Interior for nothing, while he could only get them from his brother-in-law when he offered a higher price for them than any other tenderer. The system pursued is that when a request is made for the opening up of a timber area inquiry is made as to whether the needs of the locality call for it. If it is deemed that they do, the limit is advertised and tenders invited. In addition to this a list of lumber firms is kept in the department, and a notification sent out to them inviting tenders. To the firm or individual bidding the highest bonus, the limit is awarded. Every limit that Mr. Burrows leased while his brother-in-law was Minister of the Interior he obtained in this open and competitive way.

Will the Opposition say that when Mr. Sifton became Minister of the Interior he should have notified Mr. Burrows that he must go out of the business he had already been in for twenty years, and that any tender he submitted, even though it proposed to put more money in the public treasury than the next highest tenderer should be thrown out? Will any fair-minded man say that would have been just treatment of Mr. Burrows because he happened to be related by marriage to the Minister of the Interior? Mr. Foster, in his reply, with all his ingenuity, could not get around this plain about rothering in law continues aspects of the case. He had to resort to his familiar weapon—insinuation—so he insinuated that when all the other tenders had been read a tender could be put in at the last moment on behalf of Mr. Burrows. The records of the department would show then, that Mr. Burrows' tender was always the last received. That is a matter capable of exact and absolute proof. Does Mr. Foster offer it? Of course not. He is dealing with insinuations, not proof. If this theory of his is correct, Mr. Burrows' tender would naturally be as little as possible higher than the next highest. Is that true? Mr. Foster as a Member of Parliament can get a return of every tender received by the department. We may be sure that he already has the information. The statement is made—and Mr. Foster may contradict it if he can—that Mr. Burrows' tenders are in some cases fifty per cent higher than the next highest, and that on the average they are thirty per cent higher. What an untruthful conspirator! It would be better for him to take his chance of an uninspired tender. Could Mr. Foster persuade himself that his insinuations had any foundation whatever? Must he not be set down as one who calumniates his fellow-members in the very face of the facts?

But there is another gentleman whose matrimonial relations afford great comfort for the Opposition. That is Mr. Adamson, the member for Humboldt. Mr. Adamson has been a banker at Rosthern for many years. He has constantly under his eye the fact that the country north of the Saskatchewan, on the line of the Q.A. and Long Lake Railway, was being held back by the fact that for a distance of sixty miles north of it along the railway lay a country into which the settlers could not be induced to go. For thirty miles north of Regina settlers were taking up the land rapidly, but north of that as far as Saskatchewan was a desert, throughout the whole extent of which but three homestead entries had been made up to 1902. It was keeping the whole region. He had urged the department to make special efforts to get settlers in, but without result. No one could be induced to homestead. Then he thought him of interesting some of the American land syndicates, of whose operations he had heard. It took a great deal of correspondence and many meetings, but at length the men were got together and agreements reached for the purchase of 450,000 acres from the railway and 250,000 from the Government. When the syndicates began their work there were no railway stopping points in the whole district; there were no hotels or houses; no water; no roads or bridges; no industry. The syndicates however, induced the railway to establish a station, the station master's salary being paid by the syndicate. They built hotels, established livery stables, bored for water, organized a monster excursion of bankers, real estate men from the adjoining States to see the land, and maintained free of expense those who came up to look over the country, and drove them without cost wherever they wanted to go. These measures achieved the object aimed at. Settlers began to come in, and today it is a fairly prosperous district of the new province of Saskatchewan. As to the success of the enterprise as a business venture, Mr. Adamson pointed out that after four years of the heroic efforts he had spoken of they had been able to earn only half the number of acres covered by the agreement. The last considerable sale effected, notwithstanding the greatly appreciated value of land all over the west, had been at $3 an acre.

This is somewhat different from the $10 and $12 quotations of which the Opposition has been talking glibly of late. What must be the candid judgment on this history, told with every appearance of sincerity and good faith? It is clear that the section would have hung like a millstone around the neck of the railway and the region which it served, and that it could never have been settled by such measures as are within the range of Governmental powers. Would the Department of the Interior have been allowed to organize excursions of gentlemen, however distinguished, on a champagne and chicken basis, to build hotels, to establish livery stables, to board free, for weeks every land-looker who came along, and to pay fees to agents all over the northwestern States at the rate of fifty cents an acre on land sold by them? Yet by intrusting a company in the country and inducing its agents to do these things were done and a whole region rescued from the desert.

This is a perfectly unvarnished statement of what the Opposition press has pleased to call the Saskatchewan Valley land "deal," and upon which it sought to fix some stain because Mr. Adamson, whose connection with the enterprise was so natural, happened to be a brother-in-law of Mr. Tupper, M.P., who was the Dominion Land Commissioner. What has that got to do with the merits of the case?

Just one more remark and one or two questions. The region affected had been described in derogatory terms by Treasury scientific judges of land who had examined it, whether on behalf of the railway or on the Government. One of the most experienced of these declared it to be the worst area of land in the Northwest. Settlers would not look at it when they could have got a homestead in it for nothing. How many people would have been willing to put a million dollars into such a venture as Col. Davidson and his associates did? Is it not an abuse of the term "deal" in this instance? Was it not an able piece of administration to get such a region filled with contented settlers and at the same time provide for an addition to the treasury of $250,000 when the terms of the agreement are fulfilled? Yet these are the "scandals" which the Opposition is crying from the house-tops.

Johnston, at the residence, Mr. and Mrs. Powers delivered an address appropriate to the solemn occasion. He spoke of the certainty of death, the uncertainty of life, and the necessity of being right with God, as we know not when that "great summons," which must be obeyed, may come to any of us, and earnestly asked all present to live right and be ready for the Master's call. The following beautiful selections were sung: "What a Friend we have in Jesus," "Shall we gather at the River," and "Meet me There." The I.O.O.F., of which order Mr. Powers is a prominent member, marched at the head of the procession. Mr. C. C. Walsh, right hand charge of the funeral arrangements. The question of purchasing binder twine was the main subject discussed. The secretary, Mr. Rice Shepard, spoke of the different quantities given by the various dealers. He stated the best quotation as to price and quality was made by the authorities at Keston penitentiary, who quoted pure manilla twine, f.o.b., Strathcona, at 12 1/2c per 600 feet in 2400 lb. bales. Considerable discussion followed, after which orders to the amount of 16,000 lbs. were taken from those present. Several other subjects were discussed, after which the meeting adjourned to meet again in Strathcona on Saturday afternoon, July 14th.

The Far North

Graphic Account of the Spring Break
up of the MacKenzie

(Vancouver Province).

"It is several years now since I spent the winter at the small Hudson Bay Company's trading post at Port Norman, just where the clear, sparkling waters of the Great Bear river mingle
with those of the Great Mackenzie River, in the far Northwest of Canada," writes a correspondent. "The winter had passed quietly, as all winters do in the north country,
and without any greater excitement than that caused by the arrival of the winter packet with news of the outside world. But when the days began to lengthen, and the sun had more power to melt the accumulated snows (nearly eight months), and the approach of warm weather was heralded by the call of the first wild geese; then the half dozen inhabitants of the little trading post began to stir themselves. Guns were brought out and cleaned and cartridges were loaded for the annual 'goose hunt.'"

"Goose shooting on the Mackenzie River in the spring is one of the best opportunities for sport that the country affords, besides being one of the principal events of the year. The appearance of the first geese from the south is noted in every one of the Hudson Bay Company's journals from Athabasca Lake to the Arctic coast,
and the event ranks in importance
with the arrival of the steamer 'Wrigley,' or of the winter packet.

"Our diet throughout the winter months had consisted so largely of whitefish or herrings, drawn on toboggans from Great Bear Lake, that we were all anxious to get a change to geese. But to get geese it was necessary to cross the river to an island, which lay almost opposite the fort and in the line of flight. The ice in the great river showed some signs of breaking; but in the opinion of the oldest inhabitant it would have been perfectly safe for a couple of days longer, and in those two days we might get enough geese to last a month, if the conditions were favorable. The Hudson Bay officer was too busy at that time sorting and packing the furs bought during the winter, and could not go with us. However, the chance was too good to miss, and I determined to risk it, as with two Indians I crossed the river on Sunday night, May 25, at midnight, intending to return the following night.

"The river is here more than a mile wide. One of the Indians carried a small birch bark canoe to ferry us across the open stretches of water that lay by either bank; but the ice in the middle of the river, hardened by the night's frost, gave us good walking,
and seemed firm and solid enough to last a week longer.

"On Monday morning we had fairly good sport. A strong wind was blowing down the river, and as the geese
came down against it they were compelled to fly low, only a few feet above the ice of the river. Cutting straight across from one point to another, they were all following the same course, in bands of from ten to a hundred in each band. We made 'hides' of willows on a sand bar by the edge of the open water and shot all morning. By the afternoon we had about a hundred geese between us. Fifteen or twenty geese is as much, or more than most men can carry across a mile of slippery, slushy ice, where one has to pick his steps rather carefully; so in the afternoon we made up our loads along them on our backs and started across.

"We paddled in the canoe across the first strip of open water, perhaps a hundred feet wide, and then one of the Indians put the small birch bark canoe
on his shoulders and another taking the lead with a sounding pole in his hand, we followed in single file, each man stepping carefully in the footsteps of the man ahead of him. We got perhaps two hundred yards from the shore, and were on the seemingly solid ice of the middle of the river, when suddenly we heard a crack and felt a shiver like a gentle earthquake shock. We stopped, and a few moments later felt the ice begin to move slowly under our feet. Another second of ice was in motion from bank to bank, though as yet moving slowly.
We knew it would be impossible to reach the shore on which the fort stood, without running great chances of slipping between some of the pieces of ice, or of being crushed by some of the falling masses, which are shoved up by the force behind them; so turning round we made as quickly as possible for the island we had just left.

"We got back without any great difficulty, and before the ice began to break into very small fragments. But we had no time to launch the canoe to paddle across the open water, and had to plunge waist deep into the ice-cold water and wade ashore. By the time we reached the shore almost exhausted from hurrying and the weight of our heavy loads, the whole river
from bank to bank was in motion,
moving steadily on with irresistible force. The break-up of the Mackenzie had come.

"No one who has not seen one of the great northern rivers break up in the spring can picture the grandeur of the sight, or realize the tremendous force which is exerted to break up the almost solid mass of ice. You feel the earth tremble beneath your feet from the impact of the teeming blocks of ice. You see enormous masses of ice pile up one on top of the other to great heights, only to sink again in a few moments with a crash when they lose their equilibrium, while the whole moves steadily on as if no power on earth could check it even for a single instant. At the same time the grinding and crashing of huge masses of ice make a dull roar like the rumble of distant thunder. It was a magnificent sight, and one that I shall long remember. We stood and watched it for a couple of hours, cold and wet, but too fascinated by the sight to think of lighting a fire to warm and dry ourselves. Presently we saw it gradually slacken its pace, while the sound of grinding and crushing grew louder for a while and then gradually died away, and soon after the movement stopped altogether.

"The same thought suggested itself to each of us. Could we get across before the ice started again? We should need an hour now at least to get across that mile of ploughed up ice, and while it might remain stationary for a day or even two days, it was just as likely to start when we were half way across; then there would not be the slightest chance of making the shore before we were crushed beneath some of the overturning blocks or sucked down into one of the numerous holes that constantly open and close beneath the blocks of ice. On the other hand, if we elected to remain on the island till the river was clear of ice it would mean a week or more of discomfort and exposure to the weather without blankets or shelter, and that at a cold and unreasonable time of the year.

"We deliberated a few moments and decided to risk the crossing. Leaving the canoe and some of our gear in a snow drift on the island, and supplying ourselves with long poles to ac-certain us in picking our way across the broken masses of ice, we shouldered our lightened packs and started the second time. It was slow work, and we got many a fall on the sharp needles of ice. This time we got about 300 yards from the island, when we felt the ice begin to move the second time. It started slowly, but soon gaining momentum it was sweeping on as fast as before. It was a question now whether we could reach the island before the ice carried us below
it, and out into the centre of the stream; and we knew if we could not reach that, we would never get ashore.

"It was every man for himself and
a race between the ice and ourselves.
Our packs were quickly discarded and we kept only the poles, and everyone made for the island. Cracks in the ice were opening and closing all around us, and these we had to jump across. Sometimes one would break through the ice, and only the long pole one carried prevented one from going under. Often the cake of ice that we happened to be on would become separated from the rest and we would have to wait until it closed up again. All the time we were drifting farther and farther down towards the end of the island, and our chances of making it grew less and less. Luckily for us, however, we found as we got nearer the shore that the current was not so strong, and the cakes of ice were larger. Even with this in our favor we would never have reached the island if there had not been a shallow bar at this lower end, on which some of the larger blocks of ice grounded, and which considerably retarded their progress. It was a great relief when we felt our feet on the sand of the extreme end of the island, and my companions were profuse in their expressions of gratitude at being delivered from almost certain death.

MAROONED IN THE FAR NORTH

"There was safety here for the time being, but we were still hardly out of danger. It would be a week at least before anyone could venture across from the foot to the island to get us, for the ice would be running all that time, and it would be foolish to attempt to cross amongst the floating ice in the frail birch bark canoe; and apart from the discomfort of being all that time without blankets or shelter from the weather, the island on which we were stranded showed signs of having been flooded in previous seasons.

"The Mackenzie, like other northern rivers which rise in the south and flow northward, has a peculiar but frolicsome manner of relieving itself from its winter fetters. The influence of advancing spring is first felt near their sources, and as they break up there, the fragments of ice float down until they come in contact with the firm ice, where dams are formed. Behind the water acquires sufficient force to burst the barrier, and in the onrush of the escaping flood the river is usually cleared for several miles below. Another ice dam is then formed, and broken in turn, and the same operation is repeated at intervals all the way to the sea. A dam of ice in the river below us would cause a flood, and the water would rise behind it until it overflowed the dam, or accumulated enough power to break it. In that case to keep above water we would be compelled to climb the trees, and then it would be a question of endurance between ourselves and the ice dam.

"However, that was for the future, and for the present we resigned ourselves to the inevitable and proceeded to make ourselves as comfortable as possible. At the upper end of the island the ground was higher than anywhere else, for here the ice of former seasons had pushed up the earth in the form of mounds. On these we made our camps, which were nothing more than a shelter of small spruce trees. Our geese we uncovered from the snowdrift and soon we had some roasting on sticks before a huge fire, our meal consisting of roast geese with food water. Soon after we lay down to take a much-needed rest. Across the river could be seen the whitewashed houses of Port Norman with the spire of the Roman Catholic church showing up plainly against the black background of Bear Rock behind, and about a mile above rose the smoke of the 'boycane.' This smoke is caused by a burning bed of lignite. It was burning when the first explorer, Alexander Mackenzie, went down the river in the latter end of the eighteenth century, and the Indians say it was burning when their ancestors first came to the country. It gets its annual breaking up when the ice of the river breaks up, and clouds of dense smoke hang over it at that season of the year.

"The first day of our involuntary exile on the island was warm and bright, and we suffered no inconvenience; but on the second day a cold rain began to fall, which later changed to snow, and soon the water was dripping through our rude shelter of spruce trees and drenching us. At the same time one of the Indians informed me that the water had risen above the ordinary high water mark, and that it was still rising steadily. Our fears were about to be realized, and we knew that the ice had jammed in the river below us. If the jam held long enough, we would be flooded, and probably be compelled to perch in the branches of a tree until the water subsided, or until it rose high enough to drown us. There was no sleep for anyone that night. Although our camp was still eight or ten feet above the level of the water, that distance would easily be covered with a few hours.

"All through the night and the next morning, reports brought in by the Indians showed a slow, steady rise of almost a foot an hour. By midday there was only a few square yards of dry land on the island. The whole of the lower part was under water. A few more inches and our camp would be flooded and our first drowned. Finally we gave up hope of the ice dam breaking, and set to work to build a stage in the lower branches of the largest spruce trees. This only occupied us a few minutes, and on finishing it we threw on to it what geese we had left, and scrambled up ourselves, just as the water covered the last mound of dry land.

"There we sat and shivered, without even the comfort of a pipe, with a cold rain falling on us from above, and the icy waters slowly but steadily rising below. We were safe again for a few hours at least. But we were not kept in suspense much longer. We had only been up on our stage about an hour when the water suddenly began to subside. The main barrier had broken. Overcome by the pressure of the waters behind it, and the flood was over.

"It was with a feeling of intense relief that we jumped down from our stage, pulled down the logs of which it was built, an immense roaring fire to warm and dry ourselves, and it was not long before we again sat down to our evening meal of roast geese and water. It was Sunday morning before a large canoe from the foot picked its way through the remnants of floating ice to the island and rescued us from our involuntary exile of almost a week on an island in the Mackenzie river."

TAGISH CHARLIE'S REWARD.

Among the picturesque characters of the Yukon met by Bruce White on his recent northern tour is Tagish Charlie, the Indian who first found gold on Klondike creek and reported it to the whitemen, says the Nelson Canadian.

Charlie is one of the wealthy men to the district, and is permitted to enjoy his affluence in a manner forbidden in Canada to all others of his race. In consideration of the valuable services rendered by Charlie, and of $5,000 "lawful money of Canada," he was granted by the Dominion government for the rest of his natural life the privilege of drinking as much as he desires of any fluid. He is practically exempted from the provisions of the law prohibiting Indians from drinking and whites from selling liquor to them.

The privilege granted to Charlie, though possibly not granted for that purpose, is resulting in the gradual transfer of Charlie's wealth to the Dominion treasury. He shows his appreciation of the government's generosity by becoming as drunk as a white man every day. He is regularly taken in charge, and fined $25 on being set at liberty. As Charlie had $100,000 a few years ago, and except in the matter of beverages, has no extravagant tastes, he will be able, barring accidents, to continue his chosen career seven or eight years longer.

His friend and companion, and former partner, Skookum Jim, sought to obtain the same privileges, but was refused, though he offered $10,000. The refusal is a further advantage to Charlie, as Jim looks after him regularly until he is ripe for police interference. The last day Mr. White was in White Horse he was present at an interview between Skookum Jim and the solicitor, who makes formal application for Charlie's daily release. Jim was told, after the lawyer had learned the hour of the arrested and consulted his watch, that Charlie would not be ready for liberty for another half hour.

The system is probably unique. Charlie feels that he has been generously rewarded by his country, while the government is practically certain to gain a considerable amount to add to the surplus.

MONEY IN THE MUD.

The world is all asleep.
But there's money in the mud.
Where's you get your crop
If it wasn't for the mud?
Where'd you get your wheat?
Where'd you get your meat?
It's pork and pie and put—
There's money in the mud.

Hark to Casey blabbin'
Terry's money in the mud.
About the old mud cabin—
A saved kind of mud.
The barn is full of little vases,
Pressed by loving feathered breasts—
Cute little homes with downy crests
These houses are made of mud.

Many's the time the British
Put their faith in mud;
When the enemies got skittish
They trusted to the mud.
They stood behind—not armor plate
Or granite walls, wild deep and great—
But of a truth the fact o' state,
Behind a bank of mud.

Whichever way you take it,
There's money in the mud.
Bake it, cake it, bake it—
There's money in the mud.
Ham and eggs and mutton chops,
And splendid fields of growing crops;
A bank account of column tops,
For there's money in the mud.—Ex.

Silk Production

With the Approval of the Mikado,
Young Japanese is to Bring
Silk Worm Into Alberta

Vancouver, B.C., June 25.—That the production of silk will shortly be added to the numerous industries of Canada seems highly probable, judging from the views which Mr. T. Oya, who arrived here from Japan yesterday on board the Empress of China. Mr. Oya has just completed a university course in England, and for two years made the study of silk production his hobby. Regarding the opportunities offered in this country for all sorts of farming, the idea of silk being added to the products of Canada struck him as a great possibility. He broached the subject to his father, who is on the advisory board of the Korean government pertaining to railway matter and is prominent in other respects in commercial and government circles in Japan. The matter was properly represented to the Mikado, who, after consultation with his government, appointed Mr. Oya to handle the project in America.

The silk industry may become a part of the new commercial life of Canada," said Mr. Oya. "In Japan the farmers are given the care and keeping of the silk worm, and this more industrious and successful a farmer produces the more silkworms the Mikado allows him to keep. The product is turned over to the government and paid for. As Canada is a land where everything under the sun is grown, I see no reason why the production of silk should not be followed with profit. I will first experiment a few years in the Northwest," continued Mr. Oya, unfolding his intentions and plans, and if my efforts are in any way successful there I will extend operations to Ontario, and from there to southern and western states. All that is necessary in growing silk is experience and industry. With these it can be followed with success in any climate where the soil is rich and the sunshine plentiful. The Japanese government will be kept posted with data regarding the progress of the experiment and Mr. Oya will go to Japan every year to report in person.

LAMONT WANTS PUBLICITY

Lamont, Alta., June 19, 1906.
To the Editor of the Bulletin:
Edmonton, Alta.

Dear Sir—

In your pamphlet "The Last West" you have given some space to Chipman and none to Lamont comparatively. Were your comparisons fair, I should not take the trouble to set the matter right. Being financially interested in the improvement and enlargement of both places, having property either in or close to each place, I take this opportunity to set forth the status of each place at the present writing. Lamont has two general stores and one in course of erection, one grocery, one hardware, store, one livery, one hotel, one blacksmith shop, one butcher shop, one implement agency, one doctor's office, one lumber yard, one creamery erected ready for the machinery which has been delayed, a school and a church in course of erection. One firm dealing in live stock, grain and produce, has paid out over twenty thousand dollars to the farmers who come here. Business is coming to them from as far east as Mundaca and Victoria and this place is becoming the market for the country north, east and south of Chipman. The livery firm have been drawing gravel for the Brackman-Kor Co., who are preparing to erect an elevator here shortly. The country to the north of Lamont is a well-settled country that has gone into what heavily this spring. Chipman has a hotel, a store, a station, a livery, a general store in erection, a flour and feed in erection, and no school nor church. Nor is it as well situated as Lamont, as to drainage, trails, wheat lands, or timbered lands. Hoping that you can insert this in your valuable paper, in justice to Lamont, I remain,

Yours respectfully,
F. STAFFORD.

Editor—"The Last West" was gotten out by the Edmonton board of trade, not by the Bulletin, as Mr. Stafford evidently premises. The secretary of the board wrote to someone in every town, Lamont included, soliciting information. Where there was a board of trade the letter saw none excited the Edmonton secretary had the address whoever he thought most likely to give the matter attention. Some of these people replied and some did not. Evidently somebody in Lamont was one of those who did not.

RECORD WHEAT AT MANNVILLE
Mannville claims the record for the growth of wheat at this time of year. There are thirty acres on the farm of James Young, south of the town, on which the wheat measured 18 inches high, on June 11. This field was sown

April 10, with home grown seed. Mr. Young is already receiving orders for next year's seed. Not only Mr. Young's wheat, but all the grain hereabouts, is looking well and promises a record breaking crop.

Among the new settlers to come in last week were Messrs. Bell and Clark, from Ontario, who have bought 10,000 acres of land south of Mannville. They bring with them one team of purebred Clydesdale mares, and have a carload of registered horses on the road now. Mr. Clark says they will go into farming on a large scale. There are eight yokes of oxen already at work, and when the horses arrive they will be put on the plow. Mr. Clark is enthusiastic over the crop prospects here and says he hasn't seen a better growth anywhere along the line.

MUTINY IN MOSCOW.

Moscow, June 24.—There has been a fierce fight between mutinous troops and loyalists outside town in which the authorities were compelled to use artillery. It is impossible to confirm the report as all persons are forbidden to approach the fortress and the authorities absolutely decline to discuss the matter. The report originates from the fact that rifle volleys were heard which increased in violence as the day wore on. It has been reported for several days that the garrison of the city was on the point of mutiny.

North Jasper place has been very carefully subdivided by the Dominion Land Surveyors into Blocks, each containing twenty full sized lots of 150 feet x 50 feet. The streets are 66 feet wide and the lanes 16 feet. With the property sub-divided in this manner there will be no trouble in the future about allowances for streets, etc. The same cannot be said of many of the sub-divisions. Our advice is to buy a block, half block or quarter Block of this property, and buy it NOW, as there is nothing like getting in on the ground floor.

With the view to giving the small investor an equal opportunity to that generally offered to the man with greater means, we have decided to offer a limited number of quarter and half blocks at the wholesale price. This will be readily appreciated by all who have only a small amount available for investment. We have quoted the very lowest possible figures on this property and from present indications the whole sub-division will be sold within the next thirty days. Prices must be advanced next week.

The ladies of McDougall Methodist church will hold a social gathering on Tuesday afternoon in the church.

The Hospital Aid of the Public Hospital will hold a meeting at the residence of Mrs. Fre Dross this evening to complete arrangements for the dining room on the fair grounds.

Dr. Sinclair, Port Elgin, Ont., who has been taking an extended trip through Western Canada, left Edmonton today by the C. & E.

Mr. Kenneth McLeod, who has lately become a citizen of Edmonton, had the misfortune to break his leg on Saturday, and has been removed to the General Hospital.

W. M. Bates, who has been with a government survey party at Lac La Biche since last February, has returned to the city, and is staying at the Pendennis. He will leave again shortly on a similar expedition with the Government surveyor Ponton.

The ladies of the Hospital Aid who are making extensive preparations for the dining hall on the fair grounds in aid of the Public Hospital, are asking the co-operation of ladies in the county, to whom they look for a supply of butter, eggs, etc., for the tables. Last year they did the same thing and found a very ready and cordial response from the ladies outside the city.

The dead of partnership was signed yesterday between Messrs. John Calderon & Lines, and they have taken over the Johnson offices at 110 Jasper avenue west. This partnership should form a strong combination. Mr. Johnson has practised long and successfully in Alberta, and has erected many of the most prominent business premises in Edmonton. He is of acknowledged ability. Mr. Calderon has practised for 15 years in Ottawa, having worked there still in hand, and has erected many of the best class of structures in stores, offices, churches and residences in that city. He was for seven years in partnership with the late Mr. King Arnold, and also worked at different times in offices in several of the large American cities, engaged with hotel specialists and on fire proof work, reinforced concrete and steel construction skyscrapers. Mr. Lines has had extensive experience in erecting warehouses, business premises and hotels on the fireproof steel construction principle, also churches, hospitals, schools, and residences, and has designed many buildings for the Rothchild family.

SOCIAL & PERSONAL

Dr. A. H. Goodwin, of Vegreville, is registered at the Pendennis.

Mr. R. J. Scott, of Lacombe, is in the city for a few days.

Mr. Jesse Tait and wife are spending their honeymoon in Edmonton. Mr. Tait is acting manager of the Bank of Commerce in Red Deer.

DR. SULLIVAN CROSS-EXAMINED.

The main feature of the hospital investigation Saturday afternoon was the cross-examination of witness Sullivan. Most of the afternoon was taken up with a learned bout between the cross-examiner and witness, which consisted of technical arguments upon "polyvalent anti-streptococci sera," "acute nephritis," "diuretics," and the powers that should be deputed to nurses in attendance upon patients.

Out of the multitude of words and opinions one was able to gather that Dr. Sullivan has little use for modern methods in medicine, and is ready to cast aside the opinions of such men as Tynon, Hare and other medical experts for the conclusions from his own observations.

Witness Sullivan was cross-examined by Mr. Biggar, to whom he admitted that he had come to this country to be cured of the drinking habit and that he had been sent to the hospital as nurse on the condition that he would abstain, to which condition he had not complied. He did not see the patient from the 6th until the 17th, when in his opinion, there were symptoms of strychnine poisoning. He saw the boy only for ten minutes, and the same again the following day. He would not admit to Mr. Biggar that cold was injurious to a patient recovering from scarlet fever, although Mr. Biggar submitted contrary evidence from advanced and expert medical texts. He did a good deal of quibbling over the interpretation of the word "cold." His opinion was in direct opposition to that of the text book. He would not admit that a cold shock would cause uraemic poisoning. Here again he contradicted medical authorities. He charged Dr. McGibbon with neglect of the boy, because he had depended too much to the nurses.

He thought nurses were incapable of administering hypodermic injections of serum, as it was not the custom in the old country; and again indulged in considerable quibbling. He was ready to contradict Dr. McGibbon that the boy had not bronchitis. He admitted he had made no examination. The investigation will be resumed this afternoon.

CLOVER-BAR.

The debate, "Resolved, that the press has had and is having a greater influence than the pulpit," was held in the league room on Thursday night. The affirmative was supported by A. Ottewill, G. Ottewill and Miss Pithie; F. Pithie, Roy Drysdale and Miss Annie Ottewill upheld the negative. After a few remarks by the critic the judges decided in favor of the negative.

The Clover Bar Sunday school picnic, which was held on Friday afternoon, was a great success.

The Clover Bar baseball team were defeated by the Agricola team, the score standing 30 to 8.

The Clover Bar football team met defeat in a game with the Strathcona team, the score being 7 to 0.

THE NEW MEMBER

He was a country Senator, and when he took the floor The eyes of fellow-members slowly turned to look him over; His hair was long, his voice was loud, and whiskers decked his chin. His "newness" advertised itself before he could begin; He paused to gather dignity, with handkerchief in hand, His movements were deliberate, but very far from "grand." And well they knew, from former years, about what he would say. But still they couldn't smile in quite the same old way.

"I'm not a ready speaker, gentlemen," he slowly said, "And eloquence has never yet through me its lustre shed, But if you'll take my simple life, and its brief pages scan, I think you'll all agree that I have been an honest man, I represent constituents in this great body here, And I expect to serve them faithfully from year to year." He paused in awkward silence, and stroked his beard of grey. But still they couldn't smile in quite the same old way.

It was his maiden effort, and, while he strove to speak His voice would sometimes quaver, and then again would quaver; He talked against monopoly, and over-reaching trusts— They recognized in his remarks the old reformer's thrusts, He cried against corruption, its baneful last and then He said they should be dealt with by true and upright men, They watched him as with fervor, his form would bend and sway, But still they couldn't smile in quite the same old way.

It was the old, familiar speech,—they used to call it "cant," And used to laugh within their sleeves to hear that kind of rant, But somehow when this new man spoke, although he was uncouth, They seemed to realize that he was dealing with the truth Some glanced about with furtive looks, some trembled just a bit, For well they knew those shafts at last had found a place to hit; They were, of course, ridiculous, these things he tried to say, But still they couldn't smile in quite the same old way.
